THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF DEFENCE (SHRI MALLIKARJUN): (a) to (e) There has been no significant increase in the number of officers opting for premature retirement over the last 3 years from the Armed Forces. In fact, considering the authorised strength of the Forces, these numbers are a small fraction. A tabular statement giving the details is enclosed (see below) Existing rules provide for premature retirement from the service under certain conditions such as supersession for promotion, compassionate reasons of a personal nature etc. Requests for premature retirement are duly examined on their individual merits subject to the exigencies of service.

In the 1980s, two cadre reviews were undertaken to increase promotion avenues for officers within a pyramidical structure of the Forces. With the acceptance of the recommendations of the Fourth Pay Commission a concept of running pay scales for the posts of Second Lieutenant of the Army and equivalent upto and including the rank of Brigadier and equivalent has also been introduced. These measures have substantially improved the career prospects and emolument packages of the Armed Forces officers.
